MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1788.

LONDON, March 20.

A SHORT time since a butcher who purchased a calf not far from Lewes, sat with it on a horse at a public house door, on which a shoemaker (remarkable for his drollery) observing, and owing the butcher had to pass through a wood, ered to the landlord to steal the calf, provided he uld treat him with six-penny worth of grog. The dlord agreed, and the shoemaker set off and dropt new shoe in the path near the middle of the d, and another a quarter of a mile from it. The butcher saw the first shoe, but did not think orth getting down for; however, when he discred the second, he thought the pair would be an dition, and accordingly dismounted, tied his e to the hedge, and walked back to where he seen the first shoe. The shoemaker, in the mean , unstrapped the calf, and carried it across the s to the landlord, who put it in his barn. The her, missing his calf, went to the inn and told his rtune; at the same time observing, that he must another calf, cost what it would, as the veal bespoke. The landlord told him he had a calf e barn, which he would sell him; the butcher ed at it, and asked the price. The landlord reid, give me the same as you did for the calf you as this, I think, is full as large. The butcher d by no means allow the calf to be as good, but d to give him within six shillings of what the cost, and accordingly put the calf a second on his horse. Crispin, elated with his success, rtook to steal the calf again for another six-penorth, which being agreed on, he posted to the and hid himself; where, observing the butch, ming along, he bellowed so like a calf, that utcher, conceiving it to be the one he had lost, out in joy, "Ah! are you there! have I found last?" and immediately dismounted and ran the wood. Crispin, taking advantage of the er's absence, unstrapped the calf, and actually ack with it to the publican, before the butcher d to tell his mournful tale; who attributed the to witchcraft. The publican unravelled the ry, and the butcher, after paying for, and parof a crown's worth of punch, laughed heartithe joke, and the shoemaker got highly aped for his ingenuity.

April 5. The Turks, if they have but the art to the war, will still baffle the enemy. In a ry, like the present seat of war, at all times scaned, because imperfectly cultivated, famine never e far off.—And thus the power expected from bers of the allied army, will, on the contrary, me the destruction.

F. Haldimand is talked of to succeed the go-general of Canada, if lord Dorchester should pp, as is expected; his health, as it is said, beoo impaired to bear the vicissitudes of another r in Canada.

he ministry have come to no determination as respecting the tobacco trade. This affair has the minister much perplexity—the decay of the on the one hand, by smuggling, suggests the e, but the impossibility of that mode of reveaffords the great difficulty—while on the other , the produce to government annually, is an t of the greatest importance.

he following fortresses are supposed to be by this besieged by the Imperial and Russian armies, Choczim, Bender, Belgrade and Oczakow.

letters from Hamburgh, dated the 21st ult. we , that a great majority of the burgher. of Dantave determined to deliver up that city to the an monarch, deeming it the surest and most effal means to re-establish the ruined commerce of once flourishing port. In consequence of this ded resolution, letters from Berlin say, that ops were taking there to co-operate with the ns, who were so strongly attached to the Prussivernment.

e resolution of ministers against suffering any ns to be given by the merchants of this counRussia, is a matter of more serious import than it has hitherto been considered. Let us recollect, that without foreign aid the Russians are utterly incapable of meeting the Ottoman fleet. The Black Sea is at this moment in the possession of the Turkish squadron—Without transports the Russian fleet cannot sail from Constrada. We have denied them the ship sand men. From Holland they cannot expect to procure them, as the king of Great-Britain has great influence there. They cannot fit out, victual and man, forty transports in a week, nor in a month.—It is a work of time and effort, and could not be accomplished in time for the sailing of the Russian squadron this campaign.

Thus the simple measure of withholding the transports and seamen is decisive of the maritime operations for the campaign—and those who know the exhausted state of the two Imperial treasuries, do not imagine that the war can be carried to another campaign. On the other hand, however, the refusal of Britain may provoke Russia to unite herself still more closely with France—an event which is by no means improbable, and which would involve very important political considerations.

Policies are now opened at Lloyd's, to return one hundred guineas for six, if hostilities should be commenced between Great-Britain and any foreign power, within six months from this time; and one hundred for twelve, if within twelve months from this time. This speculation was enlivened by the proclamation for the recal of seamen, as it is considered at least as a cause of some apprehensions.

The Porte menaces Poland with an army of 50,000 men, if that republic should suffer the Russians and Austrians to march through its territories, and therefore the Poles must, in consequence, be involved in the dispute, who will, no doubt, be obliged to raise a considerable army, and take a decided part in favour of the courts of Petersburgh and Vienna.

NEW-YORK, May 28.

By accounts already received of the forces raised by the empress, emperor, and the Porte, upwards of a million of men are to be led on to the destruction of each other. Shocking idea! that so many lives should be at the disposal of a capricious mortal, or that at this day religion should be the mask for such a scene of murder.

A letter from Paris, dated February 16, says, "An experiment has been tried with success of an invention which will be very useful to mankind: An old man has found out the secret of making a coat of wadding, which he covers with a varnish which will resist the effects of fire for a long time. The inventor, with his body covered with this coat and his head with a casque, with glass eyes, which he wetted frequently with a sponge, was placed in the midst of a fire lighted with faggots, and remained for many minutes; but on account of his great age, his place was taken by a young man, who stood the force of the fire for a quarter of an hour."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Bahama, to his friend in this city, dated the 11th of May.

"You request my opinion on the real cause of our present disturbances with the Indians. I give it you with pleasure, as I find you are generally in error on that subject.

"The Creek Indians are settled along our western frontiers between this state and Florida, amounting perhaps in the whole to five or six thousand men. The supply of this nation with goods, and the monopoly of their furs and peltry, formed a very profitable branch of the commerce of this state before the revolution, and since has been almost exclusively in the hands of the citizens of this state. There has been a house lately established at St. Mark's in Florida, supported and flourished by the refugees in the Bahama islands, for the sole purpose of engrossing the Indian trade. The same Alexander M'Gilliv-ray, whom you see so often mentioned, is taken in as one of the partners, and being the son of an Indian woman of good family in one of their towns, he has been able to gain some adherents to assist him in his design.

"His constant business for these three years past, has been to involve this state in a war with the Indians, to effectually break up all communication on this quarter, and thus secure the whole Indian trade in their own hands.

"It is in the power of a few individuals, active as they are in mischief, to keep so extensive a frontier as ours constantly in alarm; and unless speedily checked or explained by treaty, their barbarities will soon involve a whole settlement in war.

"We have several times quieted them by treaties and presents, but it has now been of so long continuance, and so many murders have been committed, the passions of so many on both sides are irritated to such a degree, that I fear it is only to be suppressed by force.

"The pretended dispute between us and the Indians respecting territory, is a mere delusion. The boundary line of our frontier counties, as established in 1783, immediately on our entering into treaty with them at the close of the late war, gave them very general satisfaction, and was never complained of in any of their different talks or treaties. 'till within these two years M'Gillivray and his junto have found it necessary to have recourse to it. That this is the case, you may be convinced, from the tenor of their publications in the Bahama Gazette. Last year they laid claim only to the lands lying between the Oconee river and Ogechee, which would be allowing to their great goodness but little to the breadth from east to west between twenty and thirty miles.

"This year their claim is entirely new and in another part. They now challenge the tract of country on the Seaboard, lying between us and Florida, from Altamaha to St. Mary's river, including the counties of Glynn and Camden, which were laid out, and principally patented in the time of Sir James Wright, our former governor, before the revolution, and recited by name as you will see in the constitution of this state in 1777.

"I am sensible it is impossible entirely to prevent individuals from encroaching and surveying lands beyond the Indian line. This is always very provoking to the Indians, and has been prevented as far as possible.

"I am confident there has not been an individual whose survey has been confirmed, or who has been allowed to settle himself beyond the boundary line as established by law; that the Indian nation in general has been well satisfied with the establishment of that line, and that the present disturbances among them, arise from entirely a different cause."

Extract of a letter from Pittsburgh, dated May 16.

"The news of this country is confined to Indian affairs, and three-fourths of those accounts have very little truth in them. It is expected there will be a general attendance of the Indians at the treaty; at present there are no appearances of hostile intentions among the savages. Some boats were attacked in March last about 600 miles down the Ohio, and some people killed, and others taken; among the latter is Mr. Purviance, of Baltimore, who was met beyond Sandusky on the road to Detroit:—from circumstances attending this matter, it is conjectured some white men were principal agents in the affair."

TRENTON, June 3.

The following curious circumstance may be depended on as a fact:—About the middle of April last, a turkey hen belonging to Mr. Reuben Potter, of Black Hollow, near Arneys-town, was set on nine eggs; at the end of four weeks they looked at the eggs, but there was none hatched; they daily looked, being over the usual time, and at the end of five weeks, to their great surprise, they found eighteen turkies hatched, two and two fastened together by the wings and end of their little toes as they came out of the shell:—the owner separated them with a sharp knife; one of them was hurt in parting and is dead; seventeen are now living, and in a thriving condition.

RICHMOND, May 31.

Extract of a letter from Bourdeaux, dated February 16.

"The merchants of our principal sea ports are very dissatisfied with the favours that have been granted to the American commerce by the arret of the 29th of December. They are particularly clamorous about the 2d article, concerning the free admission of your cod and oil. The 5th article, which takes off the duties upon ships built in America, is in their opinion, contrary to the interest of our own ship-builders. I am not a proper judge of these matters, but I have ever reason to believe that the memorials of the respective chambers of commerce will be disregarded by the court, who seems to be determined to give every encouragement to the commerce of the United States, though it might be in some measure prejudicial to the private interest of some communities."

FREDERICKSBURG, June 5.

Extract of a letter from Richmond, June 2.

"It was to-day agitated whether the short-hand gentlemen should be suffered to take down the business of the house, for public information. Opposed by Henry, Mason, Grayson and White, with success. Mr. Mason rested his opposition upon this ground, that these gentlemen were strangers—that it was an important trust for any one—for not only the people at large might be misinformed, but a fatal stab might be given to a gentleman of the house from a perversion of his language—that it was a breach of privilege, and had been frequently determined so by the house of commons; that to shew the member who moved this question, that his objections proceeded from those principles, and not from a wish to be again a member of another room, he had given his voice for an adjournment to the theatre, where, surrounded by his countrymen, he would endeavour to speak the language of his soul.

" Mr. Nicholas was up several times upon this subject, and had been the first mover of it; but at last relinquished it as not tenable."

By a gentleman arrived in town from Greenbriar county, we learn, that captain Clindenen, about the first of April, soon after taking his station upon the Great Kanawa, sent out spies, who discovered Indians in that quarter stealing horses; he sent part of his garrison in pursuit of them, who took one scalp. Since which, his spies making a second discovery, he took a canoe, and with seven men went in the night to the mouth of Coal river, landed on the lower side, went up the river and discovered three horses, which the Indians had stolen, soon after they discovered three Indians, two of which were making a raft while the other directed. After completing the raft they put their guns and plunder upon it, when the Indian who directed got upon it, and the others swam after. When they got near the other shore, captain Clindenen's party fired upon them, killed the director and one that was swimming; the other made his escape, but was supposed to be mortally wounded.—Since which the Indians have cut off a family on Greenbriar river, little below the mouth of Muddy creek, of the name of Griffith, consisting of five persons.

ANNAPOLIS, June 19.

" The spiders most attenuated thread
Is cord, is cable, to man's tender tie
On earthly bliss; it breaks at every breeze."—

" On the 26th of May, the reverend Mr. Thomas Hopkenson, between thirty and forty years of age, at Cedar Hill, in Charles county, the seat of Dr. B. Fendall, departed this life——this variegated scene, (chequered, at best, only with disappointments,) we hope, for a better, where, only, true happiness is to be found—After a tedious illness, which wore him gradually away, he became a passive, and willing victim of death; the approach of which, he bore with much resignation, becoming the character of a sincere espouser of that blessed doctrine which teaches us to submit, unreluctantly, to the Divine Will.

Rich was his mind in ev'ry art divine,
And thro' the paths of science had he walk'd
The votary of wisdom."

To the CITIZENS of ANNAPOLIS.

GENTLEMEN,

IT was my intention to have exhibited the model of the fire engine, on an improved, simple method, whereby water can be raised for various uses, as well as the improved method of applying water to grind or saw; but with reluctance I inform you, I have not been able to make a satisfactory experiment, on account of the failure of my trunks, which convey the water up to the receiver, they admitted air so freely, that supplied the vacuum, and prevented the water from rising. The immediate necessity for me, at Philadelphia, caused me to decline any repairs here, or I should certainly succeed, for the principles, being infallible, want nothing but to be well executed to remove all doubts respecting the utility of it. At Philadelphia it is proposed to put the different plans into use, where you will hear from. I hope the gentlemen will not think it any the less practicable for a failure that can be so easily obviated, but must bear the reflections of the uninformed, till perfected.

And have the honor to be, gentlemen, your devoted humble servant, JOSEPH BARNES, as per

June 6th, 1788. 2 Mr. RUMSEY.

Elk-Ridge, May 10, 1788.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

STOLEN out of the subscriber's stable, on Tuesday night the 29th of April, a likely well made black MARE, mixed with white hairs, more so about her forehead, long and round made, about fourteen hands high, branded on the near buttock thus D, about eight years old, has a snip on her nose, part of her off hind foot white, with a white spot under her tail, trots and gallops, has a long bushy mane and tail, much rubbed with the breechband. Whoever takes up said mare and thief, and delivers them to the subscriber, and on conviction of the thief, shall receive the above reward, or fifty shillings for the mare alone.

3X JOSHUA DORSEY, sen.

Annapolis, May 15, 1788.

STRAYED or stolen, about the 1st instant, from off the commons of this city, a sorrel HORSE, about 14 hands high, three white feet, a blaze face, and switch tail. Any person delivering the said horse to John Chalmers, in said city, or unto me the subscriber, near Pig-Point, shall receive the sum of fifteen shillings.

3X JAMES COULLING.

Mount Vernon, March 6, 1788.

ROYAL GIFT,

and the

KNIGHT of MALTA,

Two valuable imported jack-asses,

WILL cover mares and jennies at Mount Vernon the ensuing spring, for (on account of the scarcity of cash) three guineas the season, and two shillings and six-pence to the groom, for his care of, and attention to, the females.

The first is of the most valuable race in the kingdom of Spain—the other is of the best breed in the Island of Malta.

ROYAL GIFT (now 6 years old) has increased in size since he covered last season, and not a jenny, and hardly a mare to which he went, missed.

The KNIGHT of MALTA will be four years old this spring, about fourteen hands high, most beautifully formed for an ass, and extremely light, active and sprightly; comparatively speaking resembling a fine courser.

These two jacks seem as if designed for different purposes, but equally valuable; the first, by his weight and great strength, to get mules for slow and heavy draught; the other, by his activity and sprightliness, for quicker movements. The value of mules on account of their longevity, strength, hardiness and cheap keeping, is too well known to need description.

MAGNOLIO,

STANDS at the same place for two guineas the season, and two shillings and six-pence to the groom—The money, in both cases, to be paid before the jennies or mares are taken way, as no accounts will be kept.

Good pasture, well enclosed, will be provided at half a dollar per week, for the convenience of those who incline to leave their mares or jennies, and every reasonable care will be taken of them, but they will not be ensured against thefts, escapes, or accidents.

TWENTY DOLLARS Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber, living in Saint Mary's county, and state of Maryland, a negro man named NACE, about twenty-five years of age, of a dark complexion, about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high; his cloaths uncertain, as he had many, and very likely may shift them. The above negro formerly belonged to my brother Robert Abell, who lately removed to Kentucky, and believe he ran away on account of his unwillingness to go out with him, although I purchased him some time before, he thinking it was a sham sale, in order to keep him until my brother set off, and then that he was to be confined and carried out with him. The above reward will be paid to any one securing the said negro in any gaol so that I may get him again, and if brought home the above reward and all reasonable travelling charges, including what the law allows.

TWENTY DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN away a few weeks ago, a negro man named BOB, about six feet high, a dark mulatto, by trade a blacksmith, and is also a rough carpenter; his cloaths are unknown, as he took with him a variety; when he speaks it is in a loud voice and very earnest; he has a scar in the palm of his right hand. He had in his possession a written permission, signed by Walter Pye, his former master, to hire himself wherever he chose, and with this and a forged pass it is likely he will endeavour to make his escape; he was seen at Annapolis during the last races, and went towards Baltimore. Whoever will secure the said negro Bob, so that we get him again, shall receive the above reward, on application to major John Swan of Baltimore, Robert Coudon, Esq; of Annapolis, or the subscribers.

J. H. STONE, and CO.

N. B. All masters of vessels are warned not to take him on board their vessels. 22

Forty Silver Dollars, or Five Half Joes Reward,

FOR apprehending one of the most unprincipled fellows in the state of Maryland, a dark mulatto slave named DICK, who absconded yesterday evening; he is about five feet eight inches high, well made and active, is about 28 years of age, has a scar by the right eye, which is very obvious upon examination; had with him an old turn'd cloth coat, jacket and breeches, yarn stockings, osnabrig shirt and trousers, a felt hat, a pair of shoes and steel buckles, with a few other cloathes, but if possible by any stroke of villainy to acquire more, I make no doubt he will effect it.—If caught great care ought to be taken to secure him properly, as he is master of such address that there is few people on whom he would not impose; he ran away about three months ago, and was brought from Red Stone, but I conjecture that he will now make to the eastern shore, or to the Delaware state, or Pennsylvania, or endeavour to get on board some vessel. I will give the above reward to any person who will put him in Baltimore gaol, so that I get him again, or in addition thereto all reasonable travelling charges when delivered to me in the upper part of Anne-Arundel county and state of Maryland. 20

CHARLES ALEXANDER WARFIELD.

N. B. All masters of vessels and others are forewarned harbouring or carrying him off at their peril.

May 23, 1788.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the subscriber, being unable to discharge his debts, means to apply to the justices of Anne-Arundel county court, at their next June term, for the benefit of the act respecting insolvent debtors. 4 SEBASTIAN OLEY.
